TENANTS WITHOUT CHILDREN BARRED

SEATTLE, June 12.—St. Louis has something coming to it that will surpass the boasted curiosities of other cities.

J. H. Holmes, now in Seattle at The Frye, is on his way home to throw open the doors of a big apartment house just completed, of which he is the owner. He is going to refuse tenants who have not been blessed with children. "For rent, only to people with children," is the sign Holmes has in mind.

"I got a letter this morning from my agent in St. Louis," said Holmes. "He wants to know if he may rent apartments to people with children. I didn't wait to write. I wired that he mustn't rent to people without children. It makes my blood boil to think that landlords in this country are putting handicaps in the way of good men and women who are doing their duty by bringing children into the world."

Times Have Changed, He Says.
 "I have been in Japan, China and India for the last 10 years and I'm ashamed to admit that times have changed in my country. There was a time when kids were taken as a matter of course, but now dogs seem to be shown the preference."

"My apartment house in St. Louis was to have been named The Holmes. I'll change this to Sunshine Court. The first child born within the walls of the apartment will receive six months' rent free as the starter for his bank account."

"If I owned an apartment house and excluded children, I would hang my head and die of shame. When I get back I'm going to order some 'Shankees' I'll buy a piece of land adjoining my place and make a play yard for the kiddies. Slides, swings, teeter-totters and other things will be installed."

AUGUST 23 DATE SET FOR MOONEY'S DEATH
 SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—August 23 was the date set by Superior Judge Griffin in the death warrant in the hands of the clerk of the court today for the execution of Thomas J. Mooney. The warrant, which was signed Wednesday, specifies that the execution take place at San Quentin.

Attempt to Wreck Troop Train.
 WASHINGTON, June 12.—The fact that an attempt was made recently to wreck a troop train in Illinois was made known by the committee on public information today as an example of the necessity for keeping secret the movement of troops from one part of the country to another. A statement calls on newspapers to refrain from publishing any facts regarding train schedules and the advance movements of troops.

AUTHOR IN FRANCE.
 Charles M. Towne, who became famous when he wrote "The Foolish Dictionary," is in France doing his "bit" as a Y. M. C. A. war work secretary at the front.

Almost a Yankee.
 LONDON, June 12.—King George is a baseball fan. Lieut. G. M. Price, sports officer of Sunningdale Canadian hospital, wrote to the Anglo-American league, asking for a place in the league for the Sunningdale team.

"In regard to the popularity of our team I need only point out that His Majesty the King makes a practice of attending our games at Sunningdale."

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

What the Picture Theaters Have to Tell You.

Alta Theater Tuesday and Wednesday: Startling Features of "The Spy."

The secrets of the German spy system are revealed in the startling new William Fox production, "The Spy," with Dustin Farnum in the stellar role. This is the big feature for YOU, the exhibitor, to play up. Take advantage of a good picture which combines all the thrill and excitement of war, diplomatic secrets, internal politics. In "The Spy" these are some of the outstanding points:

1. A rearing meeting of the National Club of New York.
2. Attempts of a German spy, on shipboard, to murder a member of the American Diplomatic Service.
3. Revelation of the Wilhelmstrasse—the most complete system of espionage that has ever existed.
4. Ball at the American embassy in Berlin, at which intrigue is carried on under the guise of social entertainment.
5. An American's successful attempt to gain possession of a list of German spies in the United States.
6. A German girl's sacrifice for the man she loves and the country of her adoption, the United States!

DUNCAN AND HOLT STAGE

REAL FIGHT BEFORE CAMERA
 The fiercest, most realistic man-to-man fight ever screened is seen in the seventh episode of "Vengeance—and the Woman." Greater Vitagraph's wonderful melodrama serial, which will be seen in the Pastime Theatre today. William Duncan (Henry Blake), all around athlete, measures his strength and skill against George Holt, cow puncher. Holt is Black Jack's outlaw leader, who has caught Carol Holloway (Beenie Blake) in the mountains and she fight for her possession. "No quarter, just go to it," said Duncan, as the men got before the camera, and Holt took Director Duncan at his word. Every blow was intended as a knockout and every trick known to rough and tumble fighters was employed as the two powerful men struggled for supremacy, until sheer exhaustion ended the fight with the girl safe for the moment in the hands of her husband. That fight was all the two men did that day and they bore bruises for days afterward.

ArCADE Today
 The man of many thrills and laughter, George Walsh, the William Fox athlete thunderbolt, will be here today in a photoplay called "Brave and Bold." Manager Sullivan of the Arcade theatre promises Mr. Walsh will surpass anything he has ever done. No doubt he will fulfill this promise because George Walsh never does anything by halves. That is the reason he is so big a favorite everywhere. Walsh has a story that gives him plenty of chance to exhibit his athletic ability. As Robert Booth associated with the Wilson Company he is trying to close a deal with a European prince. This will net him a firm a billion dollars or so. The house of Firkins & Firkins is the Wilson Company's rival and at the head of this house is Chester Firkins. Now Robert Booth has an appointment with the prince at four-forty sharp on Friday afternoon at the Port Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh. The complications that arise are both thrilling and humorous. Even the girl in the case gets in a bad tangle from which the hero rescues her. He also saves the prince from being blown up and wins the contract despite Firkins and his "devilish ways."

PARIS UNSHAKEN; BUSINESS USUAL
 PARIS, France, June 11.—No greater proof of the confidence of the French nation could be given than the state of mind in Paris during the battle of the Marne. The French army has wrought the miracle. In 1914 the greater part of the population of Paris fled from the shops, the theaters were closed, the streets were largely deserted and a pall of horror hung over the city.

Today nobody denies that the capital is in danger, yet a greater contrast with the condition of things in 1914 could hardly be imagined. In spite of our pet gun and waspish German airmen, Paris is as cheerful and unconcerned as the minutes in their new summer finery, who throng the streets and theaters. The shops are all open and the department stores are crowded with women armoring themselves against hot weather. The theaters are run serenely and are well patronized. The Comedie Francaise is celebrating the anniversary of Corneille's death by reviving his plays. A vaudeville theater is playing "Belle of New York."

This time Paris believes that it will be saved, not by a miracle but as a matter of course. After four years of war confidence in our allies is unshakable and life goes on undisturbed.

U. S. NAVY OFFICER TELLS OF TRANSPORT
 CHICAGO, June 11.—Ocean escort to his majesty the American soldier is a task of the importance of which the American sailor is well aware. Robert Holt, officer in the United States navy, who is working in Mrs. Robert Holt's 2023 Sheridan road, writes home to tell of some of the extraordinary care that is being taken to carry the "Hindenburg line-smashers" safely to France. Anything remotely suggesting a periscope is shot at sight. Of a voyage in which a number of vessels crowded together, he writes:

"One morning a cruiser made a right angle turn to the left and fired. How the convoy did scatter. It looked like a crap game round by a cop. They shot out at full speed in all directions but it turned out to be only a bit of wreckage."

One of the hardest tasks the sailor has is to convert the soldier of his dancer. When the darkened boat is slipping out of harbor at night a sol-

"It's a most difficult business," writes Mr. Holt, "for we have to go after every man and take away matches, lighters and anything that would make a flash from 6 in the evening till 6 in the morning. The home trip is easier, for there are no troops, and the responsibility is lighter. We are like a big family party. And anyway it is always good to see 'Liberty' standing watching for us."

Uncle Sam Takes Hand.
 SAND POINT, Idaho, June 7.—An attempt of organizers for the International Union of Timber Workers here last night to organize a local of the union among woodmen was frustrated by army officers who presented a letter from Colonel Brice P.
